

Annual Review Business Checklist

Most business owners become so immersed in the daily operation and management of the business that they don't set aside time to evaluate its operations. An annual gathering of a business owner and his or her close advisors—including a trusted attorney, accountant, insurance professional, and other financial advisors—is an excellent opportunity to review the business as well as accomplishments or setbacks that might shape the overall future plan for the company.

Although not exhaustive, the following is a list of potential agenda items to include in an annual review session. This meeting is an opportunity for the business advisors to communicate with each other, encouraging open dialogue and cooperation throughout the planning process.

| 1. | Review business financials |   |  |  |
|----|----------------------------|---|--|--|
|    |                            | Annual budget   |  |  |
|    |                            | Balance sheet   |  |  |
|    |                            | Cash flow update  |  |  |
| 2. | Pro                        | Projected income tax liability  |  |  |
|    |                            | Brainstorm potential measures which may be taken to reduce the tax exposure before end of year.         |  |  |
| 3. | Bu                         | Business valuation  |  |  |
|    |                            | Is the business valuation on target for projected growth?   |  |  |
| 4. | Succession planning        |   |  |  |
|    |                            | Has the company created a 5-year plan (or if more appropriate, a 10-year plan)?                         |  |  |
|    |                            | Long-term plans should be adjusted annually to take into account progress made in the prior year.       |  |  |
|    |                            | Is there an "emergency" plan in place that addresses an unexpected event?                               |  |  |
| 5. | Contractual obligations    |   |  |  |
|    |                            | Often a company may not review contractual obligations on an ongoing basis.                             |  |  |
|    |                            | Does the company continue to comply with the terms of these obligations? Are the terms still favorable? |  |  |
|    |                            | Leases – real property and equipment  |  |  |
|    |                            | Contracts with other third parties – purchase agreements  |  |  |
| 6. | Bu                         | Business insurance  |  |  |
|    |                            | Has new real property been acquired? Was this property added to the company's insurance policy?         |  |  |
|    |                            | Is all equipment covered?   |  |  |
|    |                            | Are there any new exposures that should be mitigated through insurance?                                 |  |  |

|     |  | A company's success or failure may be contingent upon its relationship with a financial institution that provides funding for business operations. Consider a review of the following: |  |  |
